I am nominating Sue Wax for several reasons. First, across the past few years, our department has had significant changes in administrative staff (persons retiring, persons having to take leaves of absence, medical issues). Normally, the department office has three members, but on many many occasions, Sue has been the only person on staff managing the office. She has done this with good humor, very competently, conscientiously, and without expressions of difficulty or complaint. Second, Sue is the manager of grants and budgets for the department. Sue is an amazing person when it comes to managing grants and figuring out how to make them work. She is also a master at working through administrative red tape that can interfere with project completion. Sue is 100% trustworthy as an advisor and shepherd of grants and budgets. Third, Sue is very open and available for appointments and meetings. Her door is always open and she is willing to meet to handle problems that pop up at a moments notice. Finally, Sue is a very humble and good-natured person who enjoys sharing moments with faculty about things outside of the university related to life, nature, and family.
